

Cliff Rieders attended the American Law Institute meeting in Washington, D.C., on May 19, 2004. Rieders is a member of several Consultative Groups of the American Law Institute, including one on torts. The Restatement Third, Torts is intended to be a definitive statement of the law of torts, which can be used by the 50 states. Rieders participated in the public debate, and is working with several of the Reporters or law professors with an eye towards improving the current proposals.
